

The Itojun Service Award 2011

The Itojun Service Award

- Dr. Jun-ichiro Hagino, known as “itojun” or “The IPv6 Samurai”, passed away in 2007, aged just 37.
  - a true hacker (KAME IPv6/IPsec, etc) who loved computers, programming, music and food.
- The award
  - was established by itojun’s family and friends, and is administered by ISOC.
  - recognizes and commemorates itojun’s extraordinary dedication to IPv6 development.
  - aims to encourage pragmatic contributions to IPv6 development and deployment in the spirit of serving the Internet.

The 2011 Itojun Service Award

Goes to

The 2011 Itojun Service Award

Goes to

Alexandre Cassen

Rémi Després

- ❖ For their design and implementation of 6rd, providing a real IPv6 experience for hundreds of thousands of users
- ❖ For enabling the world's largest public IPv6 deployment
  - Free Telecom made IPv6 Internet Access available to any subscriber that wanted it by simply clicking on a box in their account setup
  - All new users receive IPv6 by default

Message from Alexandre Cassen

