Requesting Feedback

- The IETF Trust Trustees would like feedback from the community on several issues
 - We have received reasonable requests that we can not accommodate
 - The trust agreement does not allow the trustees to effectively manage some trust assets

Issue #1

- We have recently been asked permission to republish the TAO with a creative commons license, but unfortunately the current trust agreement does not give the trustees the rights to do this
 - Without specific language being added to the trust agreement, we cannot grant these types of requests
 - The current open request for a creative commons license from 6/18/2013 cannot be completed

Issue #2

- We cannot currently accept physical assets like hardware donations into the trust
 - Once accepted into the trust, we would be unable to dispose of these items in the future if they are identified as no longer being needed
 - This removes flexibility in managing assets in the trust, and we currently use alternative methods of accepting donations outside of the trust

Issue #3

- Once a domain name or trademark is registered by the trust, it cannot be abandoned even if it is no longer needed
 - We must maintain these in perpetuity

Requesting Feedback

- Does the community feel these are reasonable reasons to update the trust agreement?
- Next Steps:
 - Email to community soliciting input

Thank You!
